

THE BIDDER'S CURSE: COMMENT

Henry S. Schneider

March 2014

ONLINE APPENDIX

I provide several additional tables below. Tables A1, A2, and A5, and Figure A1 show the results from the main text using data that exclude shipping fees. Tables A3 and A4 show the outliers in the M&L cross section with and without shipping fees. The mismatches and reasons for mismatches, referred to in Footnote 17 of the main text, are at the end of this document.

Table A1: Wording differences and overbidding in cross section, excluding shipping fees

	N	Fraction overbid	Fraction overbid 5 percent	Δ price mean (percent)	Δ price median (percent)	Δ price mean ex-outliers (percent)
Auction has "new," BIN does not	269	0.62	0.51	9.50	5.11	10.07
Auction, BIN have or do not have "new"	1,045	0.45	0.37	34.66	-2.56	4.10
Auction does not have "new," BIN does	377	0.43	0.34	0.01	-4.60	1.49
All auctions	1,691	0.47	0.39	22.95	-1.49	4.48

Notes: "Fraction overbid" and "Fraction overbid 5 percent" are the fraction of auctions that end above the low BIN price, and the fraction of auctions that end over 5 percent above the low BIN price, respectively. " Δ price mean (percent)" is the mean percentage difference between the auction ending price and the low BIN price across products. " Δ price median (percent)" is the median percentage difference, which reduces the influence of outliers. " Δ price mean ex-outliers (percent)" is another approach for limiting the influence of outliers, by dropping the bottom and top 1 percent of products based on the percentage difference between the auction and low-price BIN. The bottom and top 1 percent of outliers are in Table A3 below. Prices exclude shipping fees.

Table A2: Movies, prices, and overbidding rates in DVD data set, excluding shipping fees

Notes: Shown are statistics for each movie title and version that resulted in sale in the observational data set. “Fraction overbid” is the fraction of auctions with an ending price that exceeds the corresponding lowest-price BIN. “Auction - BIN price ($)” is the difference between the mean auction price and the mean low BIN price. Prices do not include shipping fees.

Notes: The bottom and top one percent of auction-BIN pairs based on the auction-BIN percentage price differences are shown. This table does not include mismatches. Shipping fees are excluded. Table A3 has more observations than Table A2 because the data set without shipping fees is slightly larger due to some observations missing shipping fee data.

Notes: The table reports the number of auctions and mean percentage differences between the mean auction ending price and mean low BIN price by product in the Malmendier and Lee (2011) cross-section. Positive price differences are highlighted. Prices do not include shipping fees. Products with at least ten observations are reported.
