

CSWEP

Advancing the Status of Women in the Economics Profession

- Conducts programs at the AEA and at meetings of other professional associations.
- Offers mentoring workshops for junior faculty, graduate students, and early-career researchers outside of academia.
- Publishes the quarterly CSWEP newsletter highlighting professional development materials and career advice.
- Publishes an annual survey of the representation of women in economics.
- Co-sponsors the summer economics fellows program.
- Celebrates outstanding economists who have furthered the status of women in the profession.
- Offers networking and education opportunities.

