DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

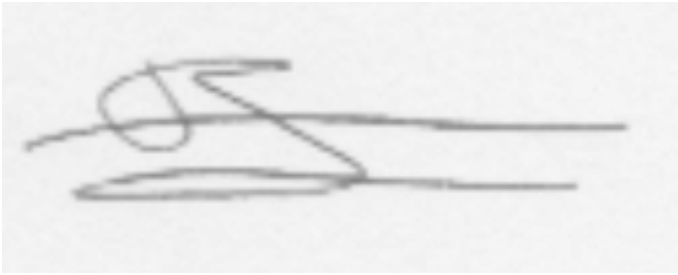

For the paper accepted by the AEJ: applied economics:
“Unintended Effects of Anonymous Resumes”
By Luc Behaghel, Bruno Crépon and Thomas Le Barbanchon

I wish to draw the attention of the Editor to the following facts which may be considered as potential conflicts of interest and to significant financial contributions to this work

The French public employment agency, Pôle emploi, provided access to data and financial support for this study. The financial support amounted to 75,000 euros. This was used to pay research assistants and participation to academic conferences. Researchers were not paid by Pôle emploi.

The French public employment agency provided me access to data for two other studies over the last two years.

The study involved collection of data on human subjects. We obtained approval from the Human Subject Committee of J-Pal Europe.

Thomas Le Barbanchon