"The Judge, the Politician, and the Press:
Newspaper Coverage and Criminal Sentencing across Electoral Systems"

James M. Snyder, Jr.

The core idea of this study was specified in a grant proposal that I submitted with my collaborator Prof. Claire S.H. Lim to the American Bar Association (ABA) in 2009. In February 2010, the ABA decided to fund the project by granting financial support to me to be administered at MIT. The total amount of funding was $4,800.

The views expressed in this study are not intended to represent ABA positions or policies. The ABA also requires that authors make an explicit statement that the authors' views do not represent ABA's positions. However, given that ABA is an association that may have interests in influencing the operation of the legal system in the U.S., I disclose the above fact, following the American Economic Association disclosure policy.
