

Disclosure Statement for Ronald G. Ehrenberg, "What's the Future of Public Higher Education? A Review Essay on Public No More; A New Path to Excellence for America's Public Universities"

1. I receive support for the Cornell Higher Education Research Institute (CHERI) from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation
2. I have received no financial support from any interested party. The Mellon Foundation is not an interested party.
3. I am a member of the Board of Trustees of the State University of New York and explicitly mention this fact in my article. I do not make any recommendations in the article that would benefit SUNY
4. No close relative of mine receives funding from an interested party nor is a member of a relevant organization
5. No one other than the editor of the JEL had the right to review the paper prior to publication

Put simply I believe I have no conflict of interest so my disclosure statement might read "The author declares that he has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper"
